

TOP 5 WEEKLY NEWS

Gymnasts victimized by Nassar will receive financial compensation for FBI failures.

Read more:
<https://shorturl.at/gnFQY>

The U.S. government will pay $138.7 million in compensation to hundreds of victims of sexual abuse committed by Larry Nassar, a former doctor for the national gymnastics team who worked for over two decades at the University of Michigan and for the sport's federation.

Finally, the internal investigation concluded that there were errors in handling the complaints received against Nassar, which allowed the doctor to continue sexually assaulting more young individuals until he was arrested in 2016.

FTC is sued by business groups over its ban on noncompete agreements, which may delay enforcement.

Read more:
<https://shorturl.at/puH05>

Mobile health apps must follow FTC breach notice rule after update.

Read more:
<https://shorturl.at/wkSTV>

OpenAI to use FT journalism to train artificial intelligence systems.

Read more:
<https://shorturl.at/jsvT6>

United Kingdom: Supreme Court rules that employees should be protected from action short of dismissal for participating in industrial action.

Read more:
<https://shorturl.at/hjoEN>

