Pavel Durov, the billionaire founder and CEO of the messaging app Telegram, was arrested at Bourget airport on the outskirts of Paris on Saturday night (08/24/2024), according to TF1 TV and BFM TV, citing anonymous sources from France.

Durov was traveling from Azerbaijan on his private plane, according to TF1, which added that he had been the subject of an arrest warrant in France as part of a preliminary police investigation. TF1 and BFM reported that the investigation focused on a lack of moderators on Telegram, and the police considered that such a situation would allow criminal activity to continue unchecked through the messaging app.
